Exercise 9 (10 points) - individual work

- The first lines of all source files must be comment containing your name & ID
- Put all files (source, input, output) in folder Ex9_xxx where xxx = your full ID. That is, your source files must be in package Ex9_xxx and input/output files (if there is any) must be read from/write to this folder
- Zip Ex9 xxx & submits it to Google Classroom. Email submission is not accepted
- Use jgrapht-core-1.5.2 but no need to include it in your submission
- 1. Complete class ActorGraph. Modify it as needed, but don't change the visibility of the given members.

class ActorGraph { public static final String BACON = "Kevin Bacon";

private Graph<String, DefaultEdge> costarGraph;
private Graph<String, DefaultEdge> conflictGraph;

public void baconDegree() { /* Find Bacon degree of given actor / } public void baconParties() { / Arrange parties for Bacon */ }

// You may use Map to keep data from input file as in Exercise 8
}

- 2. Write a main class to do the following:
 - 2.1 Read data from movies.txt and build costarGraph + conflictGraph as follows
 - 2.2 costarGraph
 - Each node represents each actor.
 - Edge between 2 nodes represents costarring (2 actors appear in the same movie)
 - 2.3 conflictGraph
 - Each node represents each actor.
 - Edge between 2 nodes represents conflict (2 actors hate each other), supposing that everyone who works in the same movie hates each other. The only 1 exception is "Kevin Bacon" who doesn't have conflict with anyone.
 - So, conflictGraph = costarGraph minus "Kevin Bacon" and edges connected to him.
- 3. Apply graph coloring to conflictGraph to arrange parties for "Kevin Bacon". Actors who are invited to the same party must not have conflict with each other. Report guest list for each party.
- 4. Get actor name/surname from user. Apply shortest path to costarGraph to find Bacon degree of that actor. Report his/her acquaintance path to "Kevin Bacon".
 - The program must be able to loop for new actor name/surname.

Note - Different coloring algorithms may give different party arrangements. You can try all of them, or choose at least 1 algorithm.
